What is a Mother?

A mother's someone special
With an understanding heart—
When others lose their faith in you
That's just when hers will start.

A mother's someone loving
Who has the sweetest way
Of giving you encouragement
When skies are looking gray---

A mother's someone helpful
Who will always lend a hand
And smooth things out a little
When they don't go as you've planned.

A mother's someone dearly loved
And that is surely true
Of a mother who is --
All these things to you.

PENNIES FOR PATIENTS – THE POWER OF A PENNY!

Would you believe what the power of a penny is? Since it started, Pennies for Patients day has raised $422,866.04! Fortunately, this has not all come as “pennies”. The year of the most pennies was 2002 when 13,000 pennies arrived. When bringing your pennies in, remember, we love silver and green paper pennies also! This year we will have 2 multi-coin counters after receiving a donation from Advia Credit Union of Port Huron. As we celebrate our 26th Annual PENNIES FOR PATIENTS™ DAY, let’s pass up last year’s total of $18,388.63. Come join us on Thursday, May 14, 2015 any time between 6:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. So if you are an early bird or not, we have a time for you! Come and see the excitement of thousands of pennies along with refreshments and fun. There will also be a Niles location at the Masonic Temple on Main and 3rd Street from 12:00 – 2:00 p.m. with cookies and punch. All the proceeds stay local to help those with cancer in our community. Bring your pennies, silver, and dollars and join us for our 26th Annual PENNIES FOR PATIENTS DAY!

NEWSLETTERS – THANK YOU!

We appreciate everyone who responded to our notice regarding the newsletter. We have been busy recording your responses. If for some reason, we are not sending your newsletter in the way that you requested, please or email us at staff@bccancerservice.org or give us a call at 269-429-3281. There may also be a slight lag time for our newsletter to get caught up with the requested changes.

New Plans for the Bike Ride

Our 20th Annual Bike Ride will be taking a different course this year. Instead of being held the 4th Sunday in June, we will be hitting the roads on Sunday, September 13, 2015. This will allow us to honor Pediatric Oncology Month in September as this past year has seen a great increase in our service to children. We are also expanding the event so that we can celebrate survivorship with our patients, cancer survivors, and the community. This will take place on Saturday, Sept. 12 with a 5K Family Fun Run/Walk and a program in the afternoon/evening. There is much planning in process, so keep watching the newsletter to know what is happening.

Art Play

We are excited about a new support program for children ages 5-18 whose lives are affected by cancer. This may be a family member, a close friend, or the child may have cancer. We are teaming up with local artists for art play sessions to allow the children to express their emotions through various art mediums. We have had 3 sessions in 2 different locations so that we can reach children in a wide area. Currently we are in the process of scheduling for the late spring/summer months. If you would like more information, please call our office at 269-429-3281 and ask for Renee’ or Nancy. This program is being made possible through a grant from the Berrien Community Foundation.

Fatigue

Fatigue is the most common side effect of cancer treatment with chemotherapy, radiation therapy, or selected biologic response modifiers. Cancer treatment–related fatigue generally improves after therapy is completed, but some level of fatigue may persist for months or years following treatment. Research indicates that for at least a subset of patients, fatigue may be a significant issue long into survivorship. Fatigue is also seen as a presenting symptom in cancers that produce problems such as anemia, endocrine changes, and respiratory obstruction and is common in people with advanced cancer who are not undergoing active cancer treatment. Cancer treatment–related fatigue is reported in 14% to 96% of patients undergoing cancer treatment and in 19% to 82% of patients post treatment.

Fatigue, like pain, is viewed as a self-perceived state. Patients may describe fatigue as feeling:

- Tired
- Weak
- Exhausted
- Lazy
- Weary
- Worn-out
- Heavy
- Slow
- Like they do not have any energy

Research on fatigue in people with cancer has included primarily self-reports of fatigue, with fewer but increasing data exploring biologic or physiologic correlates. Such correlates have included measures of muscle weakness, maximal oxygen uptake, cytokines, and cortisol.

Fatigue experienced as a side effect of cancer treatment is differentiated from fatigue experienced by healthy people in their daily lives. Healthy fatigue is frequently described as acute fatigue that is eventually relieved by sleep and rest; cancer treatment–related fatigue is categorized as chronic fatigue because it is present over a long period of time, interferes with functioning, and is not completely relieved by sleep and rest. Also, the level of CRF is often disproportionate to the level of activity or energy exerted. Although the label chronic fatigue is accurate, using this label does not mean that people with cancer who experience fatigue have chronic fatigue syndrome. Using the phrase chronic fatigue can be confusing to both patients and health professionals. Terms such as cancer fatigue, cancer-related fatigue, and cancer treatment–related fatigue have all been used in the clinical literature, research literature, and educational materials for patients and the public.

Fatigue has a negative impact on all areas of function, including the following:

- Mood
- Physical function
- Work performance
- Social interaction
- Family care
- Cognitive performance
- School work
- Community activities
- Sense of self

The pattern of fatigue associated with cancer treatment varies according to type and schedule of treatment. For example, people treated with cyclic chemotherapy regimens generally exhibit peak fatigue in the days following treatment, then report lower levels of fatigue until the next treatment; however, those undergoing external-beam radiation therapy report gradually increasing fatigue over the course of therapy of the largest treatment field. Few studies of people undergoing cancer treatment have addressed the issue of fatigue as a result of the emotional distress associated with undergoing a diagnostic evaluation for cancer and the effects of medical and surgical procedures used for that evaluation and for initial treatment. Because most adults enter the cancer care system following at least one surgical procedure and because surgery and emotional distress are both associated with fatigue, it is likely that most people beginning nonsurgical treatment are experiencing fatigue at the beginning of treatment.

Recommendations for fatigue management focus on identifying factors that may be contributing to fatigue. Because the only definitive causal mechanism demonstrated through research to date is chemotherapy-induced anemia, most clinical recommendations for managing fatigue caused by something other than chemotherapy-induced anemia rely on careful development of clinical hypotheses, as outlined in the National Comprehensive Cancer Network guidelines on fatigue. The only level 1 intervention for CRF at this time is exercise. Much more research is needed to better define fatigue and its trajectory, understand its physiology, and determine the best ways to prevent and treat it.
