Autumn Scene

Upon the hills the giant trees with color were ablaze,
Like smoke from smouldering embers rose the late October haze.
All silent and magnificent I fancied I could see
The Master Artist touching up some solitary tree,
But the glory of the picture where the painter signs his name.

Now I cannot speak the language of the men who paint and draw,
And with technical precision can't describe the scene I saw.
All I know is that a picture was unrolled for me to see,
And the high lights and the shadows seemed just what they ought to be,
But that gorgeous burst of color in the foreground caught my eye,
And I knew it made the landscape, though I couldn't say just why.

It struck me as peculiar, where an earthly painter signs,
The Master Artist splashed His name in tangled shrubs and vines.

CHILDREN'S ART FESTIVAL

On Thursday, November 19 from 5:00 – 7:30pm at the Marie Yeager Cancer Center, please join us for an enjoyable evening strolling through the beautiful art objects that children have created while taking part in our “Art Play” program this year. There will also be heavy Hors d'oeuvres and refreshments as well as live music and vocals. Come talk to the children and their families that have benefitted from this program about their experiences and art pieces along with our talented artists, volunteers, and staff. “Art Play” is a Berrien County Cancer Service community based therapeutic art program for children ages 5-18 who have been impacted by cancer (family member, friend, self). Learn about and experience the benefits of art as a means of expressing feelings. The Marie Yeager Cancer Center is located at the Lakeland Health Park (Bldg D), 3800 Hollywood Rd, St. Joseph, MI. Come support the children and families of Berrien County.

The Herald-Palladium

Going PINK for October!

During the month of October, the Herald Palladium is displaying Pink Ribbons throughout their paper on Mondays and Tuesdays in the business ads and classified ads.

To remember or honor someone with breast cancer, for only $12, you can have a photo along with the name and a pink ribbon and for $10 the name and ribbon. If you run a business add, it is only $10 to add a pink ribbon to be displayed in your add. A portion of these ads goes to support BCCS and the nursing care we give in our community.

Bike Ride / 5K Results

A HUGE THANK YOU!!! to all the volunteers, participants and BCCS staff who helped to make our Cancer Care Awareness Weekends a success! The weekend started off with a Cancer Survivor's Celebration on Saturday, September 12 in Niles. We were privileged to hear from Melissa Tsunemori regarding her experience as a cancer patient with BCCS along with Wendy Chapman, also a cancer survivor, who told how much our Art Play program has positively impacted her children. Both stories were heart stirring and dynamic. Jann Totzke, R.N. (Director of Oncology Services of Lakeland Health) related how the Berrien County Cancer Service is the eyes and ears of the Oncology Clinic as well as the impact that Lakeland Health is having in the community. We were also privileged to have representative from the Strong Women of Faith and Chemosabies.

Following the program, was the 1st Annual Olove Colcord 5K Family Fun Run/Walk. On Sunday was our 20th Annual Bike Ride with 102 riders taking to the roads! The weather was cool to begin with but warmed up nicely with the sun shining! Mike Jones of Cycle & Fitness of St. Joseph donated a bike for raffle which was won by Lee Green. Lee is one of our volunteers and was celebrating his 20th birthday on that Sunday....see his big smile on the Berrien County Cancer Service, Inc. Facebook page!

Feelings and Cancer

Dealing with the different side effects and life changes of cancer treatment can be hard on you emotionally as well as physically. Just as cancer affects your physical health, it can bring up a wide range of feelings you're not used to dealing with. It can also make many feelings seem more intense. They may change daily, hourly, or even minute to minute. This is true whether you're currently in treatment, done with treatment, or a friend or family member. These feelings are all normal.

Denial

When you were first diagnosed, you may have had trouble believing or accepting the fact that you have cancer. This is called denial. It can be helpful because it can give you time to adjust to your diagnosis. It can also give you time to feel hopeful and better about the future.

Sometimes, denial is a serious problem. If it lasts too long, it can keep you from getting the treatment you need.

The good news is that most people work through denial. Usually by the time treatment begins, most people accept the fact that they have cancer and move forward. This is true for those with cancer as well as the people they love and care about.

Anger

People with cancer often feel angry. It's normal to ask, "Why me?" and be angry at the cancer. You may also feel anger or resentment towards your health care providers, your healthy friends and your loved ones. And if you're religious, you may even feel angry with God.

Anger often comes from feelings that are hard to show, such as fear, panic, frustration, anxiety, or helplessness. If you feel angry, you don't have to pretend that everything is okay. Anger can be helpful in that it may motivate you to take action. Talk with your family and friends about your anger. Or, ask your doctor to refer you to a counselor.

Fear and Worry

It's scary to hear that you have cancer. You may be afraid or worried about:

- Being in pain, either from the cancer or the treatment
- Taking care of your family
- Paying your bills
- Keeping your job
- Dying

Some fears about cancer are based on stories, rumors, or wrong information. To cope with fears and worries, it often helps to be informed. Most people feel better when they learn the facts. They feel less afraid and know what to expect. Learn about your cancer and understand what you can do to be an active partner in your care. Some studies even suggest that people who are well-informed about their illness and treatment are more likely to follow their treatment plans and recover from cancer more quickly than those who are not.

I read as much as I can find about my cancer. Imagining the worst is scarier than knowing what might happen. Having all the facts makes me much less afraid.

Hope

Once people accept that they have cancer, they often feel a sense of hope. There are many reasons to feel hopeful. Millions of people who have had cancer are alive today. Your chances of living with cancer – and living beyond it – are better now than they have ever been before. And people with cancer can lead active lives, even during treatment.

Some doctors think that hope may help your body deal with cancer. So, scientists are studying whether a hopeful outlook and positive attitude helps people feel better. Here are some ways you can build your sense of hope:

- Plan your days as you've always done.
- Don't limit the things you like to do just because you have cancer.
- Look for reasons to have hope. If it helps, write them down or talk to others about them.
- Spend time in nature.
- Reflect on your religious or spiritual beliefs.
- Listen to stories about people with cancer who are leading active lives.
