Indian Summer

Frost, in brief apology
For all it had to do
To every bush and plant and tree
Gives us a scenic view.

Sets the autumn woods on fire!
Paints the gardens bright:
Gilds the weed patch and the briar
With sudden golden light

War bonnet beauty stomps the fields
As ruddy leaves outrun
The morning chill and Jack Frost yields
To Indian summer sun.

Tara's Story

PLEASE NOTE: This story is being shared with us by Tara's Mom, Jessica. Tara is an amazing girl, an artist, and one of our precious patients.

In the fall of 2012, Tara started first grade at Roosevelt Elementary. She was a very excited 6 year old! After the first month of school, she started not feeling well. Tara would wake up and vomit every morning. Sometimes it lasted throughout the day. We took her into the doctor office and they did some blood work. They put Tara on an antibiotic to help her. This did nothing to help her and it eventually turned into a problem with her not being able to even keep the medicine down. As the weeks went by, Tara started getting headaches on top of the vomiting. She started missing half days of school and it turned into the whole school days. We continued to go to the doctor's office to try different things to help her feel better. Around Christmas, Tara developed a red streak across her eye. We went back into her doctor for this and we were referred to an eye doctor. The following day we had the first appointment of the morning. During the exam they discovered that there was high pressure behind her eyes. They told us we needed to get into an MRI right away. Since Tara needed to be sedated to have the MRI we were unable to get her in that day. The next day, which was a Friday, we had the first MRI appointment. We were only home a half an hour when we received a call from the doctor telling us they found a mass in her brain and we needed to pack up and get to Comer Children's Hospital at the University of Chicago as soon as possible. Our world was turned upside down and panic set in. We made arrangements for our older daughter Kayla to stay in town so she could go to school. We left for Chicago a couple hours later. When we got to the hospital we met with the surgeon team. We went over the MRI results and they told us she needed to have surgery first thing Monday morning. Tara was admitted to the ICU until surgery time. She was having pretty severe headaches and a lot of vomiting at this time. Monday was the longest day of our lives. Tara was in surgery for 9 hours. The surgeon told us it was a successful surgery. They were able to remove everything except for a film that he had to leave on the brain stem. We had to wait 3-5 days for the official pathology report but the preliminary results were that the tumor was cancerous. Shock set in then we walked down the hall to see Tara after surgery. It was so hard seeing her all bandaged up, hooked up to everything, and not knowing what side effects she would have from the surgery itself. When she first woke up she was mad, as expected. She also talked very fast and it was hard to understand what she was saying. Over the next couple weeks she had to re-learn how to do everything. She had physical therapy and occupational therapy every day. She improved quicker than they expected her to. We were able to come home ten days after surgery. Tara was going to do radiation and then chemotherapy. But, for some reason, the back of her head took a lot longer to heal than it should have. Her wound kept re-opening so the surgeon called in a plastic surgeon to come in and close her incision. After this finally healed, weeks later than planned, we had an MRI done. The tumor started growing back and was half the size it was before. We consulted with the surgeon who told us he didn't want to go back in there and remove it because of the length of time it took to heal. The oncology team wanted to adjust her treatment for Medullablastoma slightly. Instead of doing radiation then chemotherapy they changed to doing 3 rounds of chemotherapy before starting radiation then finishing with 3 rounds of chemotherapy before starting radiation and then finishing with 3 rounds of chemotherapy. She would be getting the same treatment just in a different order because the tumor was so aggressive.

A typical round of chemo consisted of Tara being admitted to the hospital for 5 or 6 days. We would go home for 3 days and then make a trip to the oncology department in South Bend for blood work and a short chemo treatment. Then we would be home for another couple days and Tara would develop a fever and we would go back to Chicago to be admitted for another 7-10 days. We would be home about a week and then it would start all over again. When she was in the hospital, an art therapist would come in and work with her every day. Tara would work on all different kinds of art. It seemed to help her during her treatment time and we found out she really enjoyed painting. When we were home if she felt up to it she went to school. She was doing everything she could to be a "normal" kid.

For Tara's radiation, we had proton therapy at a facility in Warrenville, IL. We stayed in a hotel and came home when we could. Tara ended up having 31 treatments so we were there for 6 weeks. Once a week we went to Naperville to get a chemo treatment as well. During this time school ended so I made sure I took Tara back for the last day of school and some other important events that she wanted to go to. Her sister was busy with sports and school so it was difficult to see her as often as we wanted to. Tara graduated from radiation at the end of June. We were given the month of July off which was great! We were able to spend time as a family and prepare for the final chemo treatments. Tara started chemo in August and she ended up getting dehydrated when she came home from the chemo. They started sending us home with IV bags for a few days after each treatment. At first we had an at home nurse come in to draw labs and make sure the IV was okay. Then, she told us about Berrien County Cancer Service. We had the nurse come over for a trial run to see how Tara would do with her. Tara became comfortable with her very quickly!

When Tara finished her final chemo treatment the doctors started her on a pill that she will end up taking 12 cycles of. While on this medicine she has to have blood work done monthly. She will also have an MRI every 3 months. Since Tara is more comfortable having her port accessed and blood drawn at home we have her nurse Connie from the Berrien County Cancer Service come in to do that for us. Tara really likes Connie and looks forward to seeing her (after she is done poking her anyways). Tara's last 4 MRI scans have come back stable with no new growth! She has a long road ahead of her. The chemotherapy caused her to lose her high frequency hearing and we just got her hearing aids at the beginning of June. It has taken all summer but she is getting used to them and she can really notice a difference with them in. At the beginning of August she got her glasses. She still isn't happy about wearing them and is trying to adjust to having them. Hopefully once school starts she will get used to wearing them more. Tara will start second grade in September. This summer has been filled with a lot of doctor appointments so she might be glad to be getting back into school. We are very thankful for our family and friends for all of their support during this journey. We couldn't have done this without you! We also would like to thank the Berrien County Cancer Service for being able to send Connie to us to make Tara comfortable with her blood draws that need to be done. Every time Connie comes, Tara's anxiety is a little bit better! We also would like to thank our wonderful community that we live in. You have been there with us supporting us in any way that you can and we are grateful for that! Thank you all!

SPAGHETTI DINNER BENEFIT

There will be a Spaghetti Dinner Benefit and Silent Auction for Tara to help the family with expenses associated with her medical care. This will be held on Saturday, October 18 from 4 – 8pm at the Lakeshore Middle School at 1459 W. John Beers Rd., Stevensville. Suggested Donation at the door: $8 for Adults; $3 for Children age 5 and under. For more information, please see the facebook page “Prayers for Tara Deam” or call the BCCS Office at 269-429-3281. Support Groups

Having cancer is often one of the most stressful experiences in a person's life. However, support groups help many people cope with the emotional aspects of cancer by providing a safe place to share their feelings and challenges as well as learning from others who are facing similar situations. We offer several support groups throughout each month. On the 1st and 3rd Tuesday of the month, a group meets from 1:30 – 3:00 p.m. at the BCCS Office at 7301 Red Arrow Highway, Stevensville. There is also a group that meets from 1:30 – 3:00 p.m. on the 2nd and 4th Tuesdays of the month at the Niles Senior Center at 1109 Bell Rd, Niles. An evening group meets monthly at the Marie Yeager Cancer Center from 5:30 – 7:00 p.m. on the 2nd Thursday of the month. Please feel free to join any of these cancer support groups. For further information please call the BCCS Office at 269-429-3281
